Louisvillians toast GQ

Louisville bartenders Gary Gruver and Clay Livingston can now say they've shared the spotlight alongside Bradley Cooper, Ed Helms and Zach Galifianakis — aka those hilarious guys from the hit movie "The Hangover."

The Hollywood trio is featured on this month's cover of GQ magazine, but you can find the Derby City duo inside the monthly in an ad for Bombay Sapphire. It's all part of "The Nation's Most Inspired Bartender Search" presented by Bombay Sapphire and GQ.

As part of a 40-city search, Livingston, who bartends at Mitchell's Fish Market in The Summit, was selected as the 'Ville's top choice by Bombay Sapphire master mixologist Milo Rodriguez for his Sapphire Crush cocktail.

The contest allowed members of the public to send a text message to pick their favorite bartender among the finalists, and Gruver beat out the national competition to become the "Voter's Choice."

"I can't believe I can go to just any newsstand and pick up a GQ and see my face right in the middle of it," says Gruver, who works at Martini Italian Bistro in The Summit. "It's so surreal."

21c launches online shop

Now you can have your very own 21c Museum Hotel trademark red penguin.

The downtown hot spot, named the nation's No. 1 hotel by the Conde Nast Traveler Reader's Choice Awards, started selling merchandise this week at its Web site, www.21cMuseumHotel.com.

The online shop's assortment will reflect the message of current exhibits, events and cultural activities. A ceramic red penguin, a screen-printed tissue box cover and a Malin + Goetz body gift set are some of the items available.
